

Can pets spread coronavirus?

Currently there's no evidence that our pets could play a role in spreading the infection more, than any everyday object in our homes, like a chair or a doorknob. When a person infected with COVID-19 coughs on our pet, the animal won't get infected, the virus won't replicate in them, and pets don't excrete the virus. On their fur, however, the virus can remain active for a short time, just as on objects around us, but the virus dries out, gets inactivated. Our pets can't make us sick with corona. But avoid kissing them too much, if they might have got in contact with an infected human.

More info at: <https://mindenallatert.org/corona>

dr. Tibor Haluk
veterinarian

facebook.com/budaiallatorvos

MINDA
Minden Állatért Alapítvány
www.mindenallatert.hu

Can pets spread coronavirus?

Currently there's no evidence that our pets could play a role in spreading the infection more, than any everyday object in our homes, like a chair or a doorknob. When a person infected with COVID-19 coughs on our pet, the animal won't get infected, the virus won't replicate in them, and pets don't excrete the virus. On their fur, however, the virus can remain active for a short time, just as on objects around us, but the virus dries out, gets inactivated. Our pets can't make us sick with corona. But avoid kissing them too much, if they might have got in contact with an infected human.

More info at: <https://mindenallatert.org/corona>

dr. Tibor Haluk
veterinarian

facebook.com/budaiallatorvos

MINDA
Minden Állatért Alapítvány
www.mindenallatert.hu